City employee suspended after alleged $18,000 welfare fraud unveiled

By TED OSHODI

NAOMI SMITH
...charged with theft, forgery

A stenographer for the Columbus Fire Department, was suspended from her job Monday, pending the outcome of charges of theft, forgery and trafficking in food stamps, filed against her.

Mrs. Naomi Smith, 33, of 2677 Gatewood Rd., a 12-year employee in the division's Fire Prevention Bureau at 300 N. Fourth St., is accused of collecting $18,000 worth of welfare benefits while working full time for the city.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Smith was indicted on two counts of theft, two counts of forgery and one count of trafficking in food stamps.

Franklin County Prosecutor's office filed the indictment after an investigation by officials of the welfare department.

Assistant Fire Chief H.J. Dutko, said Mrs. Smith was suspended after "various departmental charges" and the indictment were filed against her.

A source close to the city's personnel administration confirmed that a hearing has been set for Sept. 21 on the departmental charges against Mrs. Smith.

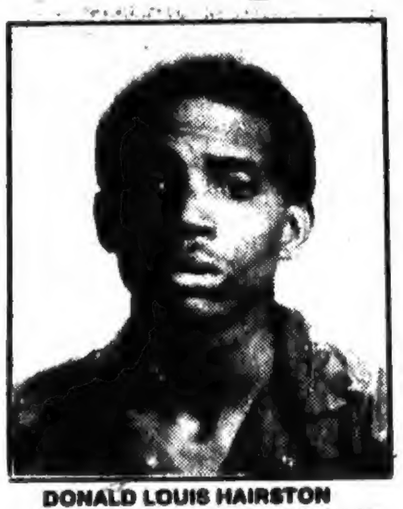
Bank robber indicted in merchant's murder; faces death penalty



DONALD LOUIS HAIRSTON
...charged with aggravated murder

A Columbus man who is already serving a six to 15 year sentence in the Marion Correctional Institution for three bank robberies, has been indicted on an aggravated murder charge with death penalty specifications in the April 19 slaying of John Meysenburg, a German Village merchant.

Donald Louis Hairston, 21, whose last address was 1071 E. Columbus St., is expected to be arraigned in about three weeks, according to a spokesman for the Franklin County Prosecutor's office. A trial date will be set after his arraignment, the spokesman said.

Meysenburg, 36, was shot to death during a struggle with a robber at his German Village flower shop, Botany Boutique, 473 S. Third St., police said. Meysenburg was a member of the Central Ohio Transit Authority board of trustees.

Homicide detectives suspected Hairston five days after the slaying of Meysenburg. He was indicted last Thursday by the Franklin County grand jury.

Police said Hairston was suspected after he was a suspect in the robbery of BancOhio office at 1873 S. Parsons

VANESSA WILLIAMS holds hands with Essence Editor-in-chief Susan Taylor following Vanessa's appearance in Essence Magazine.

Vanessa exploited again

By TONY BROWN

"I've hit rock bottom," said Vanessa Williams immediately following the revelation that she had posed in acts of lovemaking with another woman. Not quite.

In the new fall line-up for nude and pornographic dirty pictures of the defrocked Miss America, leather scanties, handcuffs and wrist bracelets have been added to her love arsenal. Vanessa, the un-Black, first appeared in the September issue of Penthouse in lesbian scenes. She returns in the November issue with the same white woman, doing heaven knows what, and again in January featured in leather roughwear "in attitudes suggesting S & M," posed in a white photographer's apartment.

There are now, to our knowledge, three nude sessions -- one with sadomasochistic overtones and one with explicit lesbian love. Three separate sessions took place in a space of weeks for two white photographers. It is hard to believe that this is the once-in-a-lifetime mistake that Williams has claimed and blamed on her "curiosity."

That summer, she reveals, "I was feeling like my own woman --free, rebellious, my own person," the New York Times reported. People said, "At last Vanessa felt free to do whatever she wanted to do, to experiment with her

Black labor leader Arthur Evans, executive director of the Communication Workers of America/Council of Public Workers (CWA/CPW), has left the public union he created, calling his departure a "mutually agreed-upon separation."

Evans was the highest-ranking Black within the unions in Ohio that primarily service the state's public employees.

Evans has long been active in the state's civil rights, political, and public employee movements. After being an activist with the Council of Racial Equality (CORE) in

"If Ben Espy can walk with one leg, then I can surely walk with two!," said Helen Jenkins Davis, a 90-year-old retired school teacher and veteran civil rights advocate, as she expressed her intent to walk in the United Negro College Fund (UNCF) Walk-a-Thon, sponsored by The CALL & POST.

A little more than a week remains to sign up for the UNCF Walk-a-Thon, a ten-mile roundtrip walk from Franklin Park to Glenwood Park, which begins at 8 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 29.

Rinehart's security guard is intense, quiet, serious

By JOHN E. JONES JR.

Police officer Gary McCants begins each day reading the scripture and his day ends whenever Mayor Dana G. Rinehart wants to call it quits.

McCants is the first Black to serve as a security guard for a Columbus mayor.

He is quiet, intense and serious. He realizes that his primary responsibility is "to protect the life of the mayor of Columbus."

With an energetic person like Mayor Rinehart, that means that McCants has to stay one step ahead of the mayor, one step behind him, one step to his left and one step to the mayor's right.

McCants said that "if there's a rock or stone in front of him and he might trip over it, fall and embarrass himself, it is my job to see that rock or stone first and remove it."

McCants, who has been on the Columbus police force since 1979, fell into the security detail role for the mayor as a

Food stamp policy challenged

A suit has been filed in U.S. District court challenging various government entities with the failure to provide relief, jobs, food stamps, and housing for the homeless and hungry.

The suit was filed by John W. Timson, who is known as "A Concerned Citizen," Inc., against the City of Columbus, Franklin County, Ohio Human Services Dept., the Housing and Urban Development Dept., and the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Timson contends that "the current practice of depriving single, unemployed and homeless citizens general relief and food stamps because they don't have a 'conventional address' is unconstitutional."

He says that the policy of requiring an address "with a kitchen, refrigerator and stove ... is ludicrous."

Father of 31 children to run adoption program

By GILBERT PRICE
(COLUMBUS BUREAU)

A family meal entails buckets of potatoes and gallons of milk; dinner is eaten at the table long enough for a small banquet; and it takes a small motel to give everyone enough room to lay down and to go sleep. But, according to Kojo Odo, another important factor enters into his relationship with the 31 children he has adopted, 26 of whom still live with him: love.

Odo, a nationally-known expert on adoption, has been hired by the Ohio Department of Human Services to run a $125,000 grant program to promote the adoption of children with "special needs" -- children who are difficult to place in adoptive homes because of their mental or physical disabilities, or their race.

Odo is an expert based on hard experience: of the 31 children he has adopted,— all of whom are Black,--most physical and mental disabilities.

Odo, a single parent, was actively involved in the civil rights movement in the 1960s, and began to adopt as a "political statement." He "went in looking for as young and healthy a child as possible," but an adoption counselor offered him a 7-year-old boy with only one arm and "heavy emotional problems." That boy, who is now 24, years old, is working towards his masters degree.

Odo describes life with his children as "a fantastically rewarding situation. My children make me feel that I have accomplished something."

Odo wanted to destroy the stereotype that Blacks are not adopting Black children. "Statistically speaking," he pointed out, "Blacks are adopting at a level four times greater than any other group." But there are so many children who need to be adopted that it sometimes appears that Blacks are not adopting.

Odo also expressed concern about the trend in television programming that shows whites adopting Black children. Although does not oppose shows like "Webster" and "Dif'rent Strokes", he also wishes that television would "Black families and Black children in an equally attractive light."

Odo will attempt to find adoptive homes for 1600 special needs children in Ohio, 900 of whom are mentally or physically handicapped. And, he argues convincingly that what he has done is not as impossible as it seems. "People are much bigger than they give themselves credit for," Odo says. "I read somewhere that people only use 10 percent of their brainpower. Well, I believe that people only use 10 percent of all their abilities." Including; to Odo, the ability to love.

Pettis heads Livingston Ave. merchant group

The Livingston Ave. Mer-hants Asso. (LAMA) recently eld its installation of officers eremony. The officers elected re Michael Pettis, president; Elaine Nesbitt, of Southeast Fish, vice president; Charles Saunders, of Cushi's Inc., reasurer; and Calvin Washing-on, of East Columbus Veteri-nary Hospital, secretary.

The installation was per-ormed by City Council Presi-dent Jerry Hammond.

Pettis was instrumental in rganizing LAMA in December f 1983, with the intention of uniting all the businesses in heir designated area bounded by Alum Creek, Parsons, Whittier and Mooberry.

"There are approximately 100 businesses in our area and we have persuaded 16 to come to our meetings, however, we need more participation" stated Pettis.

LAMA's overall goal is to change the negative perception of the Livingston Avenue area to a positive one. Goals such as crime watch programs, better street lighting and repair, bus shelter, building rehabilitation, as well as clean up programs, will help achieve this positive perception.

"By uniting as a group of businesses we will have a better chance of getting City Hall to assist in our neighborhood campaign," Pettis said "Our major problem is getting businesses to come to our meetings."

LAMA's next meeting is Oct. 3. All businesses in the designated area will be notified.

State pushing business opportunities for Ohio

By GILBERT PRICE
(COLUMBUS BUREAU)

Do you sell floor wax? Well, the state's buying. How about diapers? The state's buying. Coffee and tea, turkey breasts, coal and basketballs -- the state buys these, as well.

To assist Ohio businesses in expanding their contracting opportunities with the state, the Ohio Department of Administrative Services (DAS) has developed a booklet, "How to do Business with the State of Ohio," which lists procedures for bidding on state purchasing contracts.

"State government is one of the largest purchasers of goods and services in Ohio," William Sykes, Director of DAS said. "Most vendors do not realize the variety of contract opportunities available in providing the supplies, services, and equipment needed to operate close to 180 diverse, statewide agencies."

Karen L. Nowak, Deputy Director of the Division of Office Services in DAS, said, "It is our intent to conduct the state's purchasing in a professional manner and to provide Ohio's taxpayers maximum value for each dollar spent. All qualified businesses are encouraged to participate in the state's procurement business."

DAS under Sykes has been very aggressive in attempting to contract with minority firms. The department went from spending slightly more than $1 million with minority firms in 1983 to $15.6 million in the first three months of 1984—a total that, at the time, accounted for 32.6 percent of all dollars awarded.

The state's minority set-aside law, HB 584, requires each state agency to award 15 percent of all dollars spent on goods and services to be spent with certified minority firms.

To obtain a copy of the publication, "How to do Business With the State of Ohio" or additional information about orders and contracts, persons can contact the Office of State Purchasing, 364 South Fourth Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215, or call (614) 466-5090.

Corrections officials sued by family of dead inmate

By GILBERT PRICE
(COLUMBUS BUREAU)

The February 9, death of Southern Ohio Correctional Facility inmate Jimmy J. Haynes continues to spark controversy, as the family of Haynes joined with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) to file in federal court asking more than $750,000 in damages against the State of Ohio, the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections, and 12 correctional officers involved in the death of Haynes.

Haynes died after one of the 12 guards who wrestled him to the ground during an altercation stepped on his neck to restrain him.

The suit charges that the 12 officers named as defendants "are part of a group of 'enforcers' who regularly have used excessive force against inmates," and that the prison superintendent and other high-ranking officials "are aware of or should have been aware of the pattern and practice of the use of excessive force by corrections staff against inmates."

Haynes' death sparked an investigation by the Correctional Institutions Inspection Committee, a legislative group charged with the responsibility to monitor the state's prisons, after department officials refused to discipline any of the 12 officers involved in the death.

Mark B. Levy, Associate Director of the Ohio ACLU, said the department's failure to discipline the officers involved was "probably at least part" of the reason the family decided to sue. Levy also expressed concern that the prison in Lucasville generates more complaints among inmates about brutality and other incidents concerning inappropriate guard behavior than any other prison in Ohio.

The department's decision not to discipline the involved employees in the death of Haynes was accompanied by refusal of the Scioto County prosecutor to press charges against the employees, arguing that their action, while improper, did not violate the law. The CIIC requested that the prosecutor appoint a special prosecutor, Columbus attorney Thomas Beal, to take the case to the Scioto County Grand Jury. The grand jury, however, refused to indict the employees, representing to Levy what may have been a "kind of built-in bias in the rural community" against the inmates and for the prison officials and employees.

The suit seeks $750,000 for the pain and suffering of Jimmy Haynes, and an unspecified amount of compensatory and punitive damages, costs, and "such other and further relief as this [illegible] just and proper."

Pastor struck by lightning at foreign mission confab in Ky.

(COLUMBUS BUREAU)

About 400 Ohio ministers and lay people who attended the Lott Carey Foreign Mission Convention in Louisville, Ky., (Aug. 27-31), returned to their different cities, shocked and worried about the survival of a minister, who was struck Aug. 30 by a bolt of lightning during an early morning thunderstorm.

According to eyewitness accounts, Rev. Elmore Williams, pastor of Sixth Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Pittsburg, Pa., was playing golf with four other ministers, when a bolt of lightning struck and injured him. The other ministers were not hurt, eyewitnesses said.

Rev. Willams, a native of Vauxhall, New Jersey, was one of more than 2,000 delegates from across the nation who attended the convention.

New trial scheduled Oct. 9 for teenager

A new trial for Tracy Wright, 16, charged with a delinquency count of involuntary manslaughter, will begin Oct. 9, in Franklin County Juvenile Court. A visiting judge from another county is expected to preside.

Aug. 1, Wright, of 686 Kelton Ave., was convicted in connection with the June 3 rock-tossing incident in which a motorcyclist, Davis was struck by a chunk of concrete from the Miller Avenue overpass at I-70.

In their motions for a new trial, Defense Attorneys Larry Riehl and Mark Serrott submitted affidavits, indicating that Wright may have been at the Greater Columbus Arts Festival at the time of the accident. They said they believe the new evidence discovered is relevant to Wright's innocence.

After reviewing the motions, Judge C. Young granted Wright a new trial, and said he was stepping out of the case because for him to preside again would be like having the same jury hear a case twice.

Work for voter registration

The deadline for voter registration is rapidly approaching and according to experts, more than 55 million potential voters, two million of them in Ohio, are unregistered. That statistic is even more regrettable with the realization that a disproportionate number of those unregistered are among the lowest educational and financial achievers.

The decline in registration and voter participation leaves vast numbers of people without adequate representation.

Much emphasis must be placed on registering minorities, people with low incomes, youths, and the elderly.

In a participatory democracy the current decline is a tragic blow to effective and efficient government. Over 74 million eligible voters did not care enough to vote in 1980.

The percentage of voters who have cast ballots in the last five presidential elections has decreased dramatically with each election, from 62.8 percent in 1960 to 53.9 percent in 1980.

Secretary of State Sherrod Brown and other members of the National Association of Secretaries of State (NASS) have begun a massive national voter registration drive.

In Ohio, Brown has barnstormed all over the state urging organizations to undertake voter registration projects. He has encouraged local Boards of Election to join with private property owners in establishing registration centers in public buildings. Now anyone visiting, shopping, working or conducting business in the area will be able to register in major office buildings in different areas on at least one day between now and October 9.

The Ohio Department of Transportation has also started a nonpartisan registration drive and all facilities of the department has employees who are deputy registrars. Activity by other groups is also intensifying indicating that many Americans feel no principle is more sacred than the right to vote. There have been many barriers to free participation in the electoral process, but in Ohio the restrictions are fewer and the only requirements are citizenship, residency and prior registration, all easily demonstrable.

Two years ago the voter turnout rose for the first time since 1960 primarily because of increased interest from women, the poor and from Blacks. By working to increase voter rolls, individuals and groups can assure that elected officials will work to implement the American dream for all.

Only in Cincinnati

Certain things occur periodically that could only happen in Cincinnati. One of those things happened last week at the McMillan Street office of the Hamilton County Welfare Department. The ability to vote in a free society is one of the most precious rights that we possess. However, there are many in this society who have not voted in a long time or never voted before because they haven't registered.

With the entire nation caught up in an effort to register more potential voters, thereby strengthening the democratic process, voter registration movements are being seen everywhere.

One of those efforts here in Ohio is Project Vote, and a representative came to the local office of the Welfare Department last week to register voters. What the person got was a ride to a Cincinnati jail cell.

The Project Vote representative, a female resident of Columbus, was told that she was trespassing on Hamilton County property. The woman was told that there is a law against soliciting on county property. When she explained that she was only doing what thousands of people are currently doing nationwide, she was told that she was violating the law. When she tried to protest by saying that she was just exercising her rights under the U.S. Constitution, she was introduced to Cincinnati-style justice.

The police were called, and the woman was handcuffed and carted off to jail. Before she was formally arraigned on the trespassing charges, she was put through an embarrassing strip search. Officers said they were looking for any possible weapons. Now come on. What weapons would a voter registration worker be carrying?

This is not the first time, and probably will not be the last, that Cincinnati has embarrassed itself. Things are done differently here than they are anywhere else. Perhaps that is one of the reasons why the city is losing population or why out-of-towners do not want to come here to visit. Cincinnati's reputation across the country is that of a backward, out-of-touch community that needs to come into the 20th century.

Only in Cincinnati would a person be arrested for trying to register persons to vote.

It is a shame that things of this nature continue to occur on a regular basis in this town. We should all be angry with the treatment that the voter registration worker received. This kind of action by those who run the city needs to stop.

While the world is progressing and trying to determine how to deal with the progress, Cincinnati is moving backward and trying to determine how to stop progress. This is 1984, and there are enough criminals out there who need to be arrested instead of those who are trying to do something good. Only in Cincinnati.

Human Services honors Tyree

Columbus' Human Services Director Khari Enaharo has chosen to name a human services award in honor of Clifford A. Tyree.

Enaharo could not have chosen a more worthy person after whom to name an award for excellence in the field of human services.

As a former director of the Community Relations Dept. for the city and most recently administrator of the Youth Services Bureau, Tyree's influence in the field of human services has been far reaching.

His work with refugees through the Lutheran Social Services and his chairing the Black Family Week activities are two of his most noteworthy accomplishments.

Tyree's compassion and commitment to social justice takes a back seat to no one in our community.

Those individuals who are selected for the Clifford A. Tyree Human Services Award will have a pretty tall giant in the field to emulate.

It was a wise decision, Mr. Enaharo, a wise and thoughtful one.

SECRETARY OF STATE Sherrod Brown and Mary Yates, director of The Cuyahoga County Board of Elections, two of Ohio's greatest advocates of voter registration, recently took time out of their busy schedules to personally register voters at the Beachwood Shopping Mall with other Board of Elections employees. Many people were gratified to be registered to vote by such high ranking election officials.

Candidates use Jackson voter gains

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By GILBERT PRICE

As the 1984 campaign races head into the final straightaway, it seems like an appropriate time to attempt to evaluate the success of Rev. Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign in increasing the number of Blacks running for public office in Ohio.

One of Jackson's primary goals in waging his presidential campaign was to sweep in a raft of new Black elected officials on a tide of new Black voters. Results of this strategy, according to the respected Black political think tank the Joint Center for Political Studies, may have been "mixed".

On the one hand, Black voter registration in the 11 southern states rose by 695,000 between 1980 and 1984. However, the Joint Center also said that much of this increase appeared to have occurred between 1980 and 1982; thus, the affect of the Jackson candidacy may not have been as great as initially supposed.

In Ohio, the presence of Jackson on the Democratic primary ballot had a spectaculer affect on Black voting behavior: voter turnout in Black areas increased 36 percent over the 1980 primary; according to CBS news, while total voter turnout only increased 21 percent.

However, the 5 percent of Blacks who were voting for the first time — a key figure, considering Jackson's hope that thousands of previously-unregistered Blacks would march to the polls in his behalf -- was only slightly higher than the 4 percent of whites. What appears to have happened in the Black community — which is a positive factor in itself -- is that previously-registered Black voters are becoming increasingly more likely to vote: Black voter participation jumped substantially between 1980 and 1984, and in the 1984 primary was almost as high as white voter participation.

However, it has been difficult to translate these gains into an increased number of Black elected officials. While nationally the number of Black elected officials jumped 9 percentage points between 1982 and 1984, from 5160 tq 5700, the number in Ohio increased only 2.5 percent, from 194 state, county and municipal officials to 199. Blacks in Ohio, who make up more than 9 percent of the voting age population, are only 1.1 percent of the state's elected officials.

Some new Black candidates are trying to increase that number. William O'Rourke, of Wilberforce, is the Democratic candidate in the 65th House District. Tom Porter of Cincinnati is the Democratic candidate in the 2nd Congressional District of Cincinnati, running against Republican incumbent Willis Gradison.

In Dayton, Sarah Harris, former Executive Director of the Dayton Urban League, is the endorsed Democratic candidate for a seat on the Board of County Commissioners.

According to State Rep. C.J. McLin (D-Dayton), Chairman of the Black Elected Democrats of Ohio (BEDO), Harris is favored to win, and join Raymond Burgess in Akron (Summit County) and Virgil Brown in Cleveland (Cuyahoga County) as the state's only Black county officeholders. Brown, a Republican, is up for re-election.

These new Black candidates will join two young men who left jobs in the state legislature to return home to win elective office -- Timothy Ayres, former Assistant Clerk of the Ohio House of Representatives, who was elected City Commissioner in an at-large race in Springfield; and Reginald Hayes, a former Senate page, who now represents a ward on the Ashtabula City Council.

The CALL & POST would like to receive information about other Blacks who are running for elective office against incumbents. Send responses to: THE CALL & POST, P.O. BOX 43216-2606, COLUMBUS, OHIO 43203.

Black unity significant outcome of Mondale meeting

Guest Columnist

By CONGRESSMAN GUS SAVAGE

More than a month after the Democratic Party convention I, along with other nationally prominent Black leaders, met at length with Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale in St. Paul, Minn., the final outcome of which was enthusiastic endorsement of the Mondale-Ferraro ticket.

The meeting, which took place on August 26, the 21st anniversary of the historic Dr. Martin Luther King-led march on Washington, may in time prove to be of almost equal historic significance.

Yet, despite its potential historic significance, probably the single most important immediate symbolic gesture coming out of that highly publicized gathering was Rev. Jesse Jackson embracing and shaking hands with Detroit Mayor Coleman Young!

Let me explain.

Prior to the meeting with the other Black leaders, Mondale had conferred privately with Rev. Jackson for more than two hours at his North Oaks., Minn., home. Later when Rev. Jackson and Mondale joined the assembly of Black leaders, which consisted of allies of both Jackson and Mondale, it was clear that Mondale was forced finally to recognize the "Country Preacher" as the premier Black leader. Hence, when the Black leaders consumated the business at hand in an atmosphere where Jackson was clearly the dominant figure, it went a long way toward confirming what the Black masses of this country have already established: Jesse Jackson is the number one Black leader in the United States today.

This situation is precisely what Mondale and many prominent Black moderates had been scheming for months to keep from developing -- for the game plan all along had been to deny the leadership of Black America to Jesse Jackson and other progressive Blacks.

Even after Rev. Jackson attracted the masses through his intellectual brilliance in TV debates, confounded his critics by his strong showing in the primaries, and wowed the nation with his inspring oratory at the convention, Mondale stuck to this game plan.

But Mondale's moderate Black supporters were weakening. They had been trained to read Black discontent, even if he had not. And developments since the convention were making it crystal clear that the extra thrust from Black America that Mondale would have to get to be elected, would not be forthcoming without the all-out support of the "Country Preacher" and his allies.

Consequently, in order to win the public endorsement of these progressive Black leaders, Mondale called the St.Paul meeting to address himself to specific proposals that had been drafted by Gary, Ind., Mayor Richard Hatcher.

The proposals included these: that Mondale appoint a Black senior policy advisor to the campaign; that he promise to involve Blacks in the spending of $30 billion on social programs if he is elected; that he make a major domestic policy speech that would include "Black issues;" that he make a foreign policy address that covers "Black international concerns;' and that he set aside voter registration funds to be controlled by Ernest Green, who was an aide to Rev. Jackson during the primary and currently is a deputy political director of the Mondale campaign.

Moreover, Mondale not only was forced to meet in an atmosphere in which it was evident that Jackson's support was being sought and his demands were being acceded to, but such a meeting also had to demonstrate that Black leadership was coming to Mondale's aid under the banner of Rev. Jackson.

Therefore, as stated near the beginning of this column, the coming together on national television of Rev. Jackson and Coleman Young -- a big city mayor who has shunned Jackson for years -- could prove to be the most important development for Black America of the entire gathering.

Everyday, in one form or another, I am asked "Are you going to give the Mondale-Ferraro ticket your all-out support?" The answer is yes -- not because the Mondale-Ferraro ticket is so good but because the Reagan-Bush ticket is so bad: For three and a half years, I have been one of the most outspoken critics of his policies in the Congress. In my opinion, it would be silly for me to fight him for seven-eighths of his term and not do everything in my power to defeat him during the last eighth of that term.

At this stage, it is not clear whether support for Mondale under the leadership of Rev. Jacksonwill be sufficient to propel Mondale into the White House. I for one do not know whether the growing reaction in white America will produce support for Reagan large enough to offset the increased Black support for Mondale.

But one thing is certain. If Black America marches into this election under the progressive banner of Rev. Jackson, then, win or lose, the stage will be set for the creation of a progressive coalition of Black leadership whose influence could well extend into the 21st Century.

Such a development would be beneficial to Blacks, to all America, and the world.

Civil Rights Journal: Sharpeville Revisited

By DR. CHARLES E. COBB

Black Americans have generally been so concerned with eliminating the weight of racism from their own backs that they often have seemed unable to respond adequately or consistently to the oppression of their brothers and sisters in other parts of the globe, particularly in South Africa.

Black Americans have broken this pattern in the recent past by strong protests on two occasions: first against the South African government's murder of almost 70 Africans in Sharpeville in 1960, and second against that government's mass murder of over 500 Africans, mostly school-children, in Soweto in 1976 and 77. It is time now for similar protests, for last week the minority white South African government murdered 29 Africans in rebellions in Sharpeville and four other Black townships near Johannesburg.

The cause of this recent unrest is the new and crippling rent increases imposed by the government, and protests against substandard education of African youth. The unrest was also precipitated by the recent election of Parliament members under the new constitution. The whites of South Africa thought this new constitution was a truly progressive move. After all, they allowed the 2.6 million "coloreds" of mixed blood and the 800,000 Indians to elect representatives to their very own segregated chambers of Parliament -- and for the first time, too.

There were only two hitches: 1) the segregated chambers had no power and 2) everybody got to vote except the African majority which is still denied the vote. That majority, by the way, includes close to 21 million Africans (or 72 percent of the population) as compared to only 4.5 million whites. Then, too, the Indian and colored populations sat on their hands on election day and refused to be used as another public relations prop for the South African regime.

But the new South African government's image threatens to crumble with the recent unrest. The "colored" and Indian populations refused to participate in an impotent Parliament and those who demonstrated at the polls against the new arrangement were beaten. Then, as usual, the white South African government responded with typical armed might against an African majority which is forbidden to own firearms.

The U.S. State Department said, in response to South Africa's most recent atrocities: "There isn't any question that the South African government is aware how concerned we are about these demonstrations, and about the violence and the deaths."

It is up to all of us who support human rights, particularly Black Americans, to make our voices heard -- now. Tomorrow may be too late.

Rinehart's security guard is intense, quiet, serious

result of his efforts on election night 1983.

"He was assigned to dignitary detail in the organized crime bureau and was asked to be the security guard for the mayor on election night. The next day the mayor asked if he wanted the job permanently.

How does he keep up with the mayor?

"Well, his energy is the same as mine," McCants said, "except mine is inside coming out. His is outside, so to speak. I have to keep up with him. If I couldn't, I wouldn't have this job."

McCants' hours are from 2 to 10 p.m. — or whenever the mayor decides to end his day.

And, yes, Mayor Rinehart does inspect the city, McCants said.

"He does it at various times," McCants noted, "whenever the mood strikes him. We were coming from the airport one time and the Mayor wanted to go down Mt. Vernon Ave. He stopped at Hamilton and Mt. Vernon Aves., got out of the car, talked to a group of kids, [illegible] While he was doing it, he looked around to see if the grass was cut."

McCants relaxes in the mornings by exercising and reading the Bible.

"In my personal life I had an opportunity to come to know Jesus Christ and as a result of that I started studying the Bible," he explained.

McCants interrupted his studies at Ohio State University to enroll in the police academy.

"A friend just mentioned to me that police officer tests were being given and suggested I apply," McCants noted.

He passed the examinations and his recruit class graduated in April 1979.

He credits his interest in people as being the primary force that led him to police work.

"I'm a people person," he told The CALL & POST. "I enjoy dealing with the public. I had thought of getting in the Columbus Police Dept. to work with juveniles or in community relations. I wanted to try to help point juveniles in the right direction."

His first assignment was in the short North area, and from there went to the 12th precinct, which is in the Main, Bryden and Main Sts. area.

"I was doing some work with prostitutes to ascertain who were prostitutes ... who their pimps were ... trying to get a basic understanding of why they chose the lifestyle they did. As a result one of the girls I had the opportunity to talk with was about to leave the streets and suddenly she was found dead. I was on vacation at the time and when I returned, I went to homicide to find out about her and learned that what they had was a lot of the information I sent," he said.

His work in that area led him to be transferred to the organized crime bureau and from there to security detail for Mayor Rinehart.

Being one step head of Mayor Rinehart isn't an easy chore, but McCants seems to be able to handle that almost difficult task.

Detectives said he was charged with aggravated murder after linking him with eyewitness accounts and some physical evidence.

Homicide Sgt. Clifford Davis refused to discuss the evidence.

Hairston was arrested May 13 in Ft. Mitchell Ky., after police discovered that he was wanted for the bank robberies in Columbus.

He was held in jail until last month, when he pleaded guilty to the April bank robbery. Police said he admitted robbing two BancOhio offices, one on Parsons Ave., and another at 2060 Lockbourne Rd. Hairston also admitted robbing the Huntington National Bank, at 3000 E. Main St., according to court records.

Black labor boss quits union post

Cleveland during the 1960s, Evans went on to a career in state government during the administration of Gov. John J. Gilligan, serving as deputy director for equal employment opportunity compliance in the Administrative Services Dept., and assistant director of the Ohio Civil Rights Commission (OCRC).

After leaving the OCRC in 1975, Evans came to work for the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association (OCSEA) as a lobbyist, moving up to executive director in 1980 before being ousted in March 1983. After being forced out of his OSCEA post, Evans took 31 of his 37 staff members at OCSEA with him to form CWA/CPW, which reflected an intense effort by the CWA union's headquarters to expand its base among public employees in Ohio.

Although the CWA already represented some public employees, notably in universities and in the institutional facilities of the state, CWA ranked third in membership behind the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), and OCSEA.

However, after taking over the CWA organizing efforts with the creation of CWA/CPW, Evans told The CALL & POST that he was able to push CWA membership from abut 2,500 public workers to "well over 10,000 members," ranking CWA/CPW second in membership to the now-combined AFSCME/OCSEA.

Officials from CWA were unavailable for comment at The CALL & POST press time.

According to Assistant County Prosecutor Robert Smith (not related to the woman), Mrs. Smith is accused of forging the signature of payroll supervisor on two letters to the welfare department.

Prosecutor Smith said the letters told the welfare department, incorrectly, that Mrs. Smith was on leave without pay from March 1982 until December 1983.

Mrs. Smith, who is mother of four children, was on leave after a March 1982 auto accident when she first applied for welfare benefits the following month, the prosecutor said.

However, she continued to claim she was not working after she returned to her full-time job in May, 1982, the prosecutor added.

Mrs. Smith is also accused of failure to report child support payments that were being made for two of her children, according to the prosecution.

Mrs. Smith, who turned herself in Monday, was released Tuesday from the County jail on $1,000 surety and $4,000 recognizance bonds.

No date had been set Tuesday for her arraignment in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

Reports reaching The CALL & POST Tuesday indicated that Rev. Williams had received several get-well cards from other ministers and lay people from across the nation.

Mrs. Mary Myers, first lady of Metropolitan Baptist Church, 955 Oak St., and vice president of the Women's Auxiliary to the convention said: "We are very upset by the incident. It was a tion, a very sad situation."

Lauch Henry helped find the missing ingredient to educate minority engineers. Money.

Lauchland Henry is a teacher. And a scientist. And an engineer. He's genuinely concerned about other people. And he has expressed some of that concern in his participation with the National Fund for Minority Engineering Students.

The fund is a non-profit organization attempting to increase the number of Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos, Mexican-Americans and American Indians enrolled in engineering schools.

These under-represented minorities constitute a rich untapped resource to help fill the growing need for engineers, a need that is expected to continue through the mid-1980's.

IBM's social leave program enabled Dr. Henry to take a year's leave to assist the fund. And IBM continued to pay him his full salary.

The National Fund for Minority Engineering Students is a very worthwhile program. We think so. Lauchland Henry thinks so. But most important of all, lots of minority engineering students enrolled at colleges and universities all over the country think so.

Coleman to leave Espy; Dr. Popp gets popped

By JOHN E. JONES JR.

GRAPEVINE

Newlywed Michael Coleman, legislative aide to City Councilman Ben Espy, plans to head to greener pastures soon. Coleman will join the law firm of Schottenstein Zox and Dunn on Oct. 8.

Coleman was married on Aug. 31 to Frankie Young, of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services job training division.

A new job, a new family, a new beginning.

Sounds almost like a campaign slogan, doesn't it?

--CP--

If you are one of the three people who have been listening to Z-103, the Johnstown FM station that's after Black radio listeners, you won't be hearing from Dr. Popp anymore.

It seems that Perry L. Pierce has gotten himself fired from the Z-103 airwaves.

--CP--

One CALL & POST reporter got a close look at Republican party chief Michael Colley the other day and remarked: "He must be the only person who has to look up to Mayor Rinehart."

--CP--

Wade Steen, the Republican candidate for the state legislature in the 31st district, a seat now held by Otto Beatty Jr., has one election distinction that some people might think is dubious.

Steen is the only Republican endorsed in the general election by the political action committee of Stonewall Union, a local gay and lesbian rights' organization.

It has been said, though, that "limp wrists can pull a lever."

--CP--

We're told on good authority that Franklin County Commissioner Hugh DeMoss has a frightful fear of snakes.

If you are old enough to remember when Jerry Rasor read to us the weather news at WCMH-TV, Channel 4, you'll remember that Rasor would often bring animals into the studio to assist him in reading the weather. One day Rasor decided to spice up his act by bringing a snake on the set. That was the only animal that caused DeMoss to quickly leave his anchor spot. A fast fade to black.

One might have thought that he would have been frightened of elephants.

--CP--

Dr. Roberta Steinbacher, administrator, Ohio Bureau of Employment Services (OBES), was more than just gleeful when Democratic presidential candidate announced that he would select the former Queens housewife to be his running mate.

Watching television with a few loyal aides on the day of the historic announcement, Dr. Steinbacher cheered: "We'll be in the White House before we are in the constitution."

Oh, yeah?

--CP--

People who answer the telephone at the Franklin County Board of Elections tell you more than you want to know--and that's a swtich from most public offices.

A recent telephone call there, produced this answer: "She is on the line talking to her daughter."

Must have been an R talking about a D.

--CP--

Did you know that Felix Hoover, CALL & POST advertising rep and current sports editor, once kept company with a former Miss America?

No, it wasn't that one.

When Hoover became the first Black reporter in the news department of Channel 4, he often played Saturday evening host to Laurie Schaefer, who came to the studio to wait for her - then - future - husband - but - now - ex - husband John Lurie while he anchored the news.

Schaefer became Miss America in 1972. And, about the (in) famous bachelor party preceding the Schaefer - Lurie nupitials, Hoover says that he was invited, but was unable to attend.

He missed a party that is still talked about today.

Will the trend among Miss America candidates be to showcase the most forgivable indiscretions?

--CP--

Here's personal note to Cynthia Cecil, Democratic candidate for the Franklin County Prosecutor slot.

A recent news release from your campaign headquarters, Cindy, spelled Loretta Heard's name differently twice--and in one paragraph!

You'll have to do better than that.

--CP--

Here's my reason for Jerry Lewis' maniacal drive behind the Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

He clowns, cries and cajoles the public every Labor Day weekend. This year he pulled $32 million from the viewers of the Love network.

Lewis has refused to tell why he has dedicated so much time and effort to such a worthy cause. Here's my theory:

Sometime ago a nine-year-old lad, an MD victim, committed suicide. His parents found a note that read, "I can't standing having Jerry Lewis make fun of me all the time in his movies and on television. He walks just like I do and that makes people laugh. He won't make fun of me anymore."

The note was sent to Lewis and the rest is history.

Okay, so what's your theory then?

--CP--

You've heard about Mayor Dana Rinehart impersonating the president of the United States at the Republican convention in Dallas, haven't you?

Well, maybe not impersonating the president, but...

It seems that the Buck was on his way to a reception in Dave Thomas' limousine. It got stuck in traffic. The Buck directed his aides to run along side of the limo, just as the Secret Service do for the president. When the limo pulled up in front of the hotel, it parked smack dab in front of the place. The Buck jumped out and barked: "Don't move that car."

By the way, if the Buck is the Buck, is Mrs. Rinehart addressed as Doe?

--CP--

I called The Columbus Dispatch recently to speak with City Hall reporter Jim Breiner. He wasn't in. Receptionist Betty Skain asked for a message. I gave her my name, this newspaper, and telephone number. She then asked for the area code.

If you want to give her the benefit of the doubt, suggest that she wanted to know if I were with the Cleveland or Cincinnati offices of the newspaper, and number. She then asked for the area code.

If you want to give her the benefit of the doubt, suggest that she wanted to know if I were with the Cleveland or Cincinnati offices of the newspaper. Sure, she did.

--CP--

Here's what a director of a near Northside settlement house said, while observing the scene at the United Way of Franklin County kickoff on the Statehouse lawn recently:

"This is a real gathering of the establishment doing their thing for charity."

--CP--

There's a warrior in the cabinet of Mayor Dana Rinehart. The last name of Khari Enaharo means "an, aggressive, warrior," if you live in Eastern Nigeria.

The Ohio State University, Sports Information Dept. issues play - by - play reports at the end of each quarter for the press.

At last Saturday's Washington massacre they reported that "The quarter ended before another play could be ran."

Back to the study halls, boys.

--CP--

Does Columbus really need a poet laureate? Does Columbus really have a poet laureate?

We hear that Mayor Dana Rinehart is going to bestow such an honor on Shay Banks.

Is it because she wrote an "epic" poem to honor the Buck at his inaugural festivities?

--CP--

Did anyone shoplift a crown at the Miss America pageant?

THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT

If you plan ahead, here's one for your datebook.

Pianist Andre Watts will perform at 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31 at Mershon Auditorium, 15th Ave., and High St.

Ballet Metropolitan will hold open auditions for this year's production of "The Nutcracker," from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30 at the Ballet Met dance studio, 78 Jefferson Ave.

Central Ohio dancers from ages eight through 15 are invited to participate.

For more information on the dance auditions call Ballet Metropolitan at 224--1672.

Tickets are now on sale for Ballet Met's fall performance to be held Oct. 12 and 13 at the newly renovated Ohio Theatre. The first concert of the 1984-1985 season will feature two company premieres and one company revival.

Here's a couple of facts about the Ohio Theatre that you might find interesting

--The 2,897 seat capacity makes it economically feasible to present touring Broadway productions;

--The expanded six-story stagehouse with 63 feet of depth and 15-foot and 36-foot "wings" can house virtually any kind of theatrical presentation;

--The new $250,000 maple orchestra shell is accoustically engineered to fulfill the needs of the increasingly professional and highly respected Columbus Sympahony Orchestra, whose "home" is the Ohio Theatre;

Al White leaves prosecutor's office; joins law firm of Beatty and Stith

After 4½ years in the Franklin County Prosecutor's office, Assistant Prosecutor Al White has moved on to private practice.

White has joined the law firm of Beatty & Stith, 233 S. High St., as the chief trial attorney.

White is a graduate of Howard University Law School, a former public defender and a former director of the Legal Aid Society of Columbus. This is his first venture into private practice since graduating from law school in 1968.

"I had done everything I could do as far as litigation. I didn't see any more challenges. Nothing interested me. There weren't too many more horizons to conquer in the prosecutor's office," White said.

He said his job had become "esoteric, a one-sided approach to law" and he wanted to "broaden my horizons."

White, the only Black prosecutor on Michael Miller's felony trial staff, is best remembered for his prosecution of Linda Walden, the white woman who was convicted of killing her Black boyfriend.

He was on the prosecution team in the first trial of Dr. Edward Franklin Jackson Jr. who was charged with multiple counts of rape and burglary. White was the prosecutor in the Roy Sage trial, in which he said was the first time a defendant claimed suicide and was convicted of aggravated murder.

... leaves prosecutor's staff

Sage's conviction was overturned on appeal and will be retried.

White said he told the judge and defendant's attorney in the case that one of his "biggest regrets at leaving the prosecutor's office is I don't get another chance at Sage." In fact, White said Sage's attorney Max Kravitz, knew he was leaving and purposely continued the cause until after his departure date.

In terms of publicity, White thinks that the Walden case was easily the most over-exposed.

White said at the time he was assigned to the case the "only thing I had was a file with facts and a girl who I felt had purposely killed another person."

"I felt terribly lonely," during the trial, White said. He said he received several death threats and one letter he received at his home was captioned "the only good nigger is a dead one." He said he also heard unpleasant ramblings from the Black community and the Klu Klux Klan.

A motion for a new trial is pending before Common Pleas Judge Frank Reda.

White said, to this day, he firmly believes Walden is guilty of the slaying of William Whitefield.

White's last "big" case before he left the prosecutor's office was the prosecution of the ex-physician Edward Franklin Jackson Jr. on multiple counts of rape and burglary.

He characterized the case of Jackson as a "great waste," of a man with tremendous ability and a great mind."

"Can you imagine what this man could have done in Harlem or Watts. Just a tremendous waste of talent, a human tragedy," he said.

Due to a change in the state law regarding insanity pleas, two trials were necessitated in the Jackson case.

The second trial, held in Hamilton County, was handled solely by Assistant Prosecutor Edward Morgan.

White said he was relieved that he was removed from the case because he was "not too eager to try Dr. Jackson again."

"I felt once was enough. It was clear that I was not too sympathetic with a second trial and I voiced an opinion several times."

"I never bought the argument we must try him to give the victims a day in Court. That is a ridiculous statement," he said.

He said prior to learning he would not be prosecuting in the second trial, he talked with Jackson's attorney on ways to avoid a second trial. White said he was "more willing to bend," and a "little bit more flexible in getting a resolution on the case," but his efforts ended when he was told that he would not be prosecuting.

White, who said he welcomes the chance to try his wings in private practice, is in association with attorney Robin Stith and State Representative Otto Beatty. His area of interests are general civil and criminal law, personal injury cases and consumer product cases.

Neighborhood builders convene in Columbus

Neighborhood residents from 13 states will participate in a conference titled "Building Neighborhood Self-Reliance Through Resident Leadership," being held in Columbus on the weekend of Sep. 21-23.

Hosted by Columbus Neighborhood Housing Services, the conference is one of several Neighborhood Housing Services conferences coordinated each year by the Neighborhood Reinvestment Corp. of Washington, D.C.

The site of the affair will be the Sheraton Plaza Hotel. Events scheduled include bus tours of the Linden and Livingston Park neighborhoods; workshops focusing on marketing, fundraising, and membership recruitment; and a mock block party where more than sixty NHS programs will display literature, photos, etc. relating to improvements in their target neighborhoods.

Trust fund to aid Leroy Davis

A trust fund has been established to help defray the cost of medical bills for an 18-year-old high school youth who was injured in an auto accident on Aug. 16.

Leroy Davis, a student and member of the football team at Walnut Ridge High School, was recently released from St. Anthony Hospital. He suffered severe trauma, head injuries, and fractured skull. Davis was in a coma for six days.

The trust fund, suggested by one of his teachers, was established by Rev. George Darling, pastor, Flintridge Baptist Church, 1323 Madison Ave., where Davis is a member.

Those wishing to contribute should contact the Leroy Davis Trust Fund, BancOhio, 2700 Cleveland Ave., Columbus Ohio 43211.

by CATHERINE WILLIS

A grand and beautiful poolside background was the scene of The Sophisticates' brunch that magnificently kicked off the Fall social season. The weather was beautiful, and only for a moment did grey clouds dare to linger. The wind blew softly and the sun added sparkle to compliment the pink clothed tables and white chairs in the very large pool and lawn areas of Sophisticate Terri Walker (Dr. Watson).

Dr. and Mrs. Walker's home and their surrounding property are eye catching and satisfying to say the least. Their own array of shrubbery, fountains and flowering plants added to The Sophisticates' pink flowering Impatience that centered each table and lined both sides of the Walker's sweeping driveway.

As has been The Sophisticates' charming practice for as long as I can remember, each guest of the female gender is given a plant/flower to take home which makes a lot of plant and flower loving folks happy including me. This practice was continued at this fabuloso affair. Other interesting floral pieces were three feet high red and pink carnation arrangements that were artfully studded with varying lengths of red bamboo (The Sophisticates' colors are red and pink).

An oversided red and white striped tent top housed the delicious gourmet buffet that satisfied the most discriminating palate. The impeccable food preparation and service by the staff of Cornicopia was unsurpassed from the first sip of a Screwdriver or Bloody Mary to the last bite of fresh melons and six other tantalizing fruits.

The Eggs Interallies (mushrooms, a special cheese and white sauce) were outstanding as were other delectable morsels including the chicken and avocado casserole, sausage links with broiled tomatoes, ham and zucchini crepes, broccoli and cheese crepes each with its special mushroom sauce, orange poppy seed cake, miniature glazed pecan rolls, and blueberry crumb cake. Because I couldn't be satisfied with just one serving of those glorious eggs and the poppy seed cake, I was elected to bring back just a "Small" taste of this or that for my tablemates also.

Mellow taped music floated through the air from hidden speakers stragetically placed throughout the areas. Such tunes as David Sanborn's "As We Speak" and "Backstreet", Grover Washington's "Limelight", Earl Klugh's "Fingerpaint" added another touch of class.

The only uninvited guests were a few bees who wanted to be a part of this display of poshness, good food and drink among the fashionably clad ladies and gents. I guess they said that the area was theirs first, so they'd just pop in to pay a visit and try to get a little sophistication (pun intended). The invited guests quickly learned how to deal with them, and continued to enjoy themselves.

The affair was so splendid that it reminded one of the posh affairs described by F. Scott Fitzgerald in The Great Gatsby (remember the tent tops, pools, glamorous women, debonaire men, and distinctive food depicted in the movie version with Robert Redford and Mia Farrow?)

Responsible for the planning of this social vanguard were (spouse in paren) Sophisticates Gloria Jefferson (Dr. Alfred), Chairperson and her committee, Sophisticates Sonja Howard-Bronson, Catherine Willis (Mr. Edward), Terri Walker (Dr. Watson), Edna Newkirk (Dr. Ernest) and Christine Sowell (Mr. Sylvester).

Other members of the club are Sophisticates Betty Brewer (Dr. Thomas), Thelma Clark (Dr. Arthur), Shirley Duncan (Judge Robert), Shirlene Green (Dr. Marvin), Jane LaCour (Atty. Bernard), Lou Preston (Dr. William), Nannette Reynolds (Dr. William), Carol Scott (Dr. Douglas) and [illegible] Woodard (Dr. William).

Unable to attend were Sophisticates [illegible] [illegible] and Mary Robinson (Dr. Roger). Everyone was delighted to see the Sophisticates' President, Kathy Espy and hubby, Councilman Ben who joined the festivities for awhile. Ben's sense of humor is delightful, but I think that their twin daughters stole the show at the end of the afternoon when they came to get their mommie and daddy.

Other officers are Sophisticates Catherine Willis, Vice Prexy; Nannette Reynolds, Treasurer; Terri Walker, Recording Secretary and Mary Robinson, corresponding secretary.

Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Duren, Dr. and Mrs. Mark Thurmare, Dr. and Mrs. Julian Robinson, Mrs. Catherine Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Moorehead from Dayton, Mr.and Mrs. Vernard T. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Sullivan, Dr. and Mrs. James Liscomb, Mrs. Odessa Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas, Mrs. Mary Curtis, Attorney Edward Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Franklin, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fletcher, Dr. and Mrs. James Bailey of Atlanta, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smithers, Mrs. Valerie Bland, Mr. Frank Gravely, Attorney and Mrs. John Bowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. William Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Grigley, Dr. and Mrs. John Rosemond, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Weddington, Dr. and Mrs. William Hicks, Dr. and Mrs. J.G. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Watson, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. [illegible] Smith-[illegible], Attorney and Mrs. William Toler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. John White, Mr. and Mrs. William King, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McGill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarrett Chavous, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Walker from Dayton, Attorney and Mrs. Earl Horton from Cleveland, Attorney and Mrs. Daniel Mann, Dr. Wilton Smith, Ms. Sheryl Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tyree, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence James, Mrs. Catherine Watson and Mr. James "Toots" Young.

This first class affair reflected the easy sophisticated style of The Sophisticates and should have made its founders, Sophisticates Catherine Willis, Shirley Duncan and Nancy Evans Freeman who now resides in Washington, D.C., very proud in that the Columbus chapter is the Mother Chapter of Sophisticates nationwide. F. Scott Fitzgerald, eat your heart out (wherever you are)!!!!!

MISCELLANEOUS ERATA

As you know I'm into family reunions and believe that every family should have at least one — just call me Alexis Haley.

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Jefferson (Gloria) attended the Jefferson's reunion in Clifton Forge, Virginia. (It's near Roanoke, folks). Among many interesting things surrounding this reunion, two really caught my interest. The first is that neither Al nor Gloria had ever been to Virginia before this trip, and the second is that they usually hop a jet to go where they want to go. But, this time they tried something different by driving in a recreational vehicle and loved every minute of it.

In the former, Mrs. J. is from Miami, Fla., while Dr. J. (and I don't mean Julius Erving) was born in Portsmouth, O-HI-O, and although they are seasoned travelers, Virginia has never been on their itinerary. A real highlight of the reunion was the paying of respect to Al's roots in a graveside memorial service to his great grandparents who were the founders of the church in Clifton Forge.

If you haven't played Trivial Pursuit yet, you're missing a lot of fun. Just ask Dr. and Mrs. Ed Sullivan (Janet) and Mrs. Sonja Howard-Bronson about the game. They have a great time with it and are astounded at the things they know AND those exasperating little answers that are "just on the tip of your tongue or mind, but you just can't remember exactly." I won a game the other night on the question, "What is the name of the man who went to Paris to proclaim himself the strongest man in the world?" Yep, you're right, Charles Atlas.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark (Thelma) had an enjoyable time on their trip to Africa. They stopped in Rome for a few days to break up the 15 hours of flying. Art, have you had the slides made yet?

Ferraro charms writer at the Celeste homestead

By ELIZABETH LANEY

I met Gerry Ferraro and I admire her.

I admired her for her tenacity, her acceptance of low-flung challenges, her determination to tread in forbidden areas, her loyalty and love for family, her compassion and understanding for the elderly.

Gerry Ferraro is a unique person.

I met her at the garden party Gov. and Mrs. Richard F. Celeste gave in honor of the Gray Panthers.

Gray Panther founder Maggie Kuhn was unable to attend and was represented by Jo Turner, Chicago, of the National Gray Panther board.

Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, dares to discuss issues, pertinent to a questioning nation.

Joyce Chapple, director, Ohio Aging Dept., welcomed each guest at the garden gate. I then touched bases with Mary and Dorcas Claytor, Rev. and Mrs. Rowland (Pete) White, Mrs. Mable Hardeman, who is especially helpful to me, Mrs. Ruth Fadis, Dorothy Jackson, deputy mayor, Akron, Ruby S. Johns, Canton, Juanita Cartier, Arthur Hermann, and many others.

When Ferraro spoke, she at least had something to say. She discussed the future of Social Security as being in much better shape than that of Medicare and something must be done before the end of this decade. Ferraro told of two bills now in Congress that could help to tighten up the system. She advocated a program to keep seniors in their homes as long as they wish to be there.

Questions from the audience of approximately 150 guests, were answered promptly and sincerely. She said one time, "If you want these things to change you will vote the Mondale ticket."

I saw and heard a real live person and did not have to wonder just how much was dramatized.

I like Gerry Ferraro, an intelligent, knowledgeable woman, who dared.

This year marks the 77th year of service of Charity Newsies.

TONY BROWN
...nationally syndicated columnist

[illegible] Williams.

Essence Editor-in-Chief Susan Taylor sent her a bouquet of flattery (Vanessa Williams sent her flowers) after Williams appeared as Essence's latest cover girl in men's attire, looking like a man wearing lipstick and long hair. It does nothing for the image of Vanessa Williams on the heels of posing in a simulated lesbian love role.

Taylor blows sisterly kisses in an open letter to Williams in a tribute fit for a champion of Black womanhood. The editorial kudos contain gems of a runaway imagination. She tells Vanessa that she has that she was taken advantage of by the white people she trusted.

As her undraped, nude body is on view in dirty pictures "kissing and caressing — and being intimately kissed and caressed" by a nude white woman and in bizarre S & M scenes for the rest of this year, mothers are warning their daughters about the lubricious tableaux of "Mess America." Meanwhile, Essence magazine, according to published reports, will present "a written bouquet" to her in the October issue where the editor argues against the ethics stumbled, "but you did not violate the society's ethics. This society's ethics violated you. You were ... lambasted for posing nude."

Taylor's lovefest for the "violated" Williams then really turned convoluted: "Isn't it interesting, Vanessa, that in this country nudity is a disgrace and racism isn't?" Nudity? Two naked women together in love scenes and, says Newsweek, "engaged in explicit acts of oral sex" is innocent nudity?

Did not violate society's ethics? She certainly wasn't selling memberships for the NAACP in Penthouse. The problem, Taylor seems to argue, is that it is not what the former Miss America did, but that society is wrong because it doesn't accept what she did. I say that her nude disgrace had nothing to do with racism and violates the standards of decency of any organized society or any racial group.

The 63 years of racist exclusion from the Miss America pageant is "more offensive morally than any transgression on your part," Ms. Taylor writes to Williams. This is the poorest excuse I've heard yet for pornography. To know that Taylor is wrong all you need is a pair of eyes — even one will do. Williams is right because racism is wrong? Added a female Washington Post writer: "And any woman, be she 19 or 39, should have known better."

To hail Williams as a victim of "society's ethics" or a Black heroine of the struggle, or to even imply it as Taylor does, demeans every Black woman living and past. It reduces the ethics of Ida B. Wells-Barnett, Sojourner Truth, Harriett Tubman and the long list of Black freedom fighters to those of a tart.

It tells every Black woman — be she 19 or 39 — that her ethics depend on her ability to get what she wants any way she can. Values, therefore, are a floating crap game — good if she wins; racist if she loses. Under these rules, she is never responsible for her behavior because of her gender or race.

To show support for Williams as a Black victim of racism ignores her lesbian love scenes as well as her rejection of her role as a Black woman and role model for Black people. She saw the notion of being a Black symbol as a handicap. Even questions on the issue "irritated" her as did a comparison to Jackie Robinson. In playing down her Blackness, she noted that this is a colorless world and "nothing has held me back."

Her white "friends" certainly did. She allowed an obese white man to pose her nude twice. Even her pursuit of pornography omitted Blacks. The disgrace that followed was also "colorless."

She has confessed that she was wrong, that she took a chance and got caught. So let it be.

What she called a "mistake" of her youth now looks more like a pattern in 1982 when, according to People magazine, she "wandered into the porn (pornography) field." And she admits that she signed a release for the second white photographer's S & M pictures taken in his apartment.

This admission strips (pun intended) her of her youthful innocence excuse because it means that she wanted the world to see what the camera saw. Which gives a new meaning to the embattled Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione's words: "When did they say they didn't want the pictures in Penthouse? Where did they want them to be published? In Good Housekeeping?" She is suing the first photographer to pay her, but not to restrain Penthouse.

While Williams got disgraced, every white man associated with her downfall got something. Bob Guccione got $24 million on the September issue alone; her obese white photographer mate friend — all 300 pounds of him — got at least $250,000, almost $1,000 a pound. And her white boyfriend of four years got his hat.

So much for her notion of integration. She exploited her body to benefit her ambitions and all of the white people connected with her ambitions got a free ride — or deserted her.

Even when she was busted, the only news organizations to whom she gave exclusive interviews were white. I saw no such concern on her part for the Black Press — not a single newspaper or magazine — including the Essence magazine that defended her ethics.

And on top of all of this, after turning her back on Black people, she now returns by insulting our intelligence. "And above all, I'm Black." Believe it or not, those words were spoken by the most conspicuous un-Black, Black woman in public life. Now she turns for support to the people she scorned.

Know why? Because legitimate white people don't want her anymore. But Essence magazine's editor is, along with Williams, pushing the line that this is a racial issue rather than a moral issue.

Susan Taylor of Essence in her open-letter editorial to Williams blames society's ethics and suggests that the problem is not what Williams did, but that the public doesn't accept what she did.

Essence affects the opinions of many of the 2.9 million readers it claims. Young Black women look to it for a sense of self and are guided by its directions and role models. Taylor's editorial fails them. It certainly misrepresents the mood of the Afro-American community.

I prefer the opinions of the Black mothers who are warning their daughters not to be like Williams — in racial identity or morals — and a Black model, Donna Jorge, from Philadelphia who said: "I was proud when she won, but these pictures ... if you saw them you would think she was a lesbian ... it's not what the Miss America Pageant wants ...it's not what God wants." Most Black women would not do what Williams did.

We don't owe Vanessa Williams anything. She has disgraced Black people, denied us, worked with racism when it suited her ambitions and now seeks to exploit our moral high ground.

The Essence defense of Williams' sexually explicit (and then some) pornography is astride a moral hobby horse. Perhaps, Taylor inadvertently has confused nudity with lesbian pornography and opportunism with Blackness.

Comments in Black papers across the country are also at odds with the Essence position. An editorial in The Charlotte Post, the leading Black paper there, described Williams as "a young woman abandoning her sense of personal decency in a quest to advance herself."

A Black mother of two girls, concerned about positive role models, said in New York's Amsterdam News that William's behavior "was morally indecent and wrong" and she is now "sorry ... only because she was exposed."

The Michigan Chronicle in Detroit blamed her for "ignorant indiscretion"

PLAN CANDIDATES' NIGHT — Candidates' night at the Second Baptist Church will be held at 6 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 27. The event is sponsored by the Political Action Social Concerns Committee. Candidates' night planned at Second Baptist Church

Members of the political action social concerns committee of the Second Baptist Church are gearing up for the annual candidates' night at 6 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 27 at the church.

WBNS-TV Eyewitness News reporter Sharon Kornegay will serve as moderator for the event.

The committee, formed in 1981, as an extension of the church's ministry in the area of education, is concerned with assisting the community-at-large in political education and encouraging the community to exercise voting powers.

The committee is designed to spiritually follow political activities and highlight political strategies as they relate to the Second Baptist Church family and community. The committee also addresses social issues, such as the lack of housing, rising utility rates, conditions of the aged, and the challenges of the Black family.

The committee recently submitted a proposal to Mayor Dana G. Rinehart, in which they advocated the delivery of city services in a timely and nondiscriminating manner; increased citizen accessibility to City Hall; coordination between the Mayor's office and neighborhood organizations regarding service delivery.

David Lynch, currently executive assistant to U.S. Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie in Washington, D.C. and Attorney Janet Jackson were the original chairs of the organization. Current chairperson is Terry A. Boyd, administrator, of the city's Youth Services Bureau.

Committee members include Adam Troy, Terry Turner, Karen Winbush, Cathryn Hurston, Janice Bradley, Camille Stearns, Demarius Richardson, Harold Gray, David Gary, Tony Roseboro, Terry Lash, Janice Jackson, Cynthia Harris and Deloris Diggs.

Rev. Leon Troy, a special assistant to Mayor Rinehart, is pastor of Second Baptist Church.

blic Schools desegregation rings in the seventies.

She said that she has always en a contributor to UNCF that the walk affords her opportunity to become a visible supporter of Black lleges and universities. She ssed the importance of an ucation if today's young ople are to become an integral and productive part of ety.

Davis was very critical of those who have obtained an education at a Black school, but have done very little, if anything, to support the institution that affored them the educational opportunity. She challenged every person who attended or has been graduated from a Black school to participate in the UNCF Walk-a-Thon by either walking or serving as a sponsor of a walker.

"If Ben and I can do," she said, "then there is no excuse for others not being involved."

The first 500 walkers to arrive at the Franklin Park starting point will receive free T-shirts.

Registration forms are available at the UNCF office, 80 W. Broad St., Suite 1014; The CALL & POST, 109 Hamilton Ave.; St. Stephen's Community House, Youth Service Bureau, Neighborhood House, and the Hilltop Civic Council.

Walkers will receive sponsor sheets at the time of registration.

The goal for the 1984 Walk-a-Thon is to raise $35,000, which becomes part of the year-long fundraising goal for UNCF of $300,000 for Central Ohio.

Activities such as the Sept. 23 Walk-a-Thon, the Oct. 20 UNCF annual dinner, and the Dec. 29 nationwide UNCF telethon are the major fundraising drives. Individual and corporate contributions are sought throughout the year-long campaign.

Monies raised on behalf of the UNCF go to the 43 historically Black private colleges and universities to provide financial assistance to their students. Statistics show that over 90 percent of the students attending UNCF schools require financial aid packages that include loans, scholarships, and work-study programs to complete their education.

A Walk-a-Thon office at 1880 E. Broad St., has been opened according to James Allen, national vice president of training for UNCF. He stated that information and material relative to the Walk-a-Thon will be available at that location. The telephone number for the new office is 258-UNCF.

Prince, Kool and Gang top C&P reader survey

By JOHN E. JONES JR.

Kool and the Gang and Prince topped the list of responses to a surevy conducted by The CALL & POST to determine which entertainers our readers would pay hardearned cash to see if a promoter would take the chance on Columbus.

The frightfully unscientific poll had Midnight Star right behind Prince and Kool.

Others who appeared in the survey include the Emotions, Gladys Knight and the Pips, Rufus and Chaka Kahn, Stephanie Mills, Tina Marie, Deniece Williams, Aretha Franklin, Teddy Pendergrass, Earth Wind and Fire, Stanley Clark, Gap Band, Brothers Johnson, Ashford and Simpson, Dazz Band, Bar-Kays, S h e i l a E, One Way, and Al Jarreau.

C&P readers who took time to respond to the survey indicated that they would spend their hard-earned money to see those entertainers if they would appear in Columbus.

Admittedly, the survey didn't bring tons of results, but maybe those names might be an indication to a promoter of what the public will pay to see and hear.

Reader Ronald Williams took issue with a letter Jim Evans wrote to The CALL & POST on the future of Z-103 and its efforts to provide Blacks with a radio outlet.

Evans stated that Blacks should be wary of Z-103.

"I for one take exception with Mr. Evans' comments and believe his comments are both unfair and a bit premature," William writes. "In my opinion we should give Z-103 an opportunity to show that it will provide not only good contemporary music but community services as well. I have had the opportunity to live in other large radio station markets. Z-103 appears to be headed in a positive direction."

Williams continues, "Additionally, any smart and prudent businessman should change directions if he thought that it would provide an economic turnaround for his business. So, to Mr. Evans I say thank you for your concerns, but let's wait and see how well Z-103 will fill the Black community's need for a solid and positive radio station with the Black community's interests in mind."

(See the Grapevine column for recent development at Z-103.)

Port Columbus International Airport Publicist Michael R. Pannell informs us that the airport is going to have another of what he likes to call a "first annual" event.

This time it will be a "Flight Fantastic." It will get underway at 5 p.m., Oct. 31, Halloween Night.

Rusty Bryant and friends will perform inside the terminal from 8 to 10 p.m. Performing throughout the airport will be quartets from the Jefferson Academy, mimes, jugglers, dancers, and karate exhibitions from Community Explorations; groups from Opera Columbus, the Columbus Public Schools, and the Columbus Symphony Orchestra.

Also, "Operation Safecandy" will be conducted from 5 to 10 p.m. at the People Express security checkpoints where candy will be X-rayed to ensure it's not been stuffed with pins and needles.

And, by the way, Mr. Pannell, there is no such thing as a "first annual," if you please.

BREAK DANCE -- Scott Mansfield can show you how to break dance. He is a member of the Streetmasters, first prize winners in the event contest sponsored by Satin Enterprises.

Satin group hosts event

By PORTIA BROWN

Satin Enterprises, a new Columbus-based entertainment production company, will be hosting a cabaret from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 29 at the Crystal Ballroom, 145 N. High St.

Although Satin Enterprises just started out in the entertainment business this year, the company has already put on several impressive and well-attended productions.

The company's latest production was a "Break Dance" contest in July at the USA East skating rink. Streetmasters, a local dance group and the Mid-West "Break-Away," the USA North champs, captured first place in the contest.

A videotape of Streetmasters' performance will be sent to the Star Search TV show by Satin Enterprises. Streetmasters received a first place trophy and $100.

Other participants in the contest were the Capital City Breakers, second place; Art Production One, third place, and Break Steady Crew, a good sportsmanship award. Electric Breakers, a guest group, also hosted a party in early June at the Center Club in the Ohio Center.

Satin Enterprises is now seeking models and other fashion-oriented persons for an upcoming production. For information write Satin Enterprises, Box 16088, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Bucks await cursed Iowans for Big Ten season opener

By FELIX HOOVER
(Columbus Bureau)

I-O-W-A has probably been a four-letter word in the minds of many Buckeye football partisans since last year when the Hawkeyes swooped down on the Bucks 20-14. Maybe O-H-I-O will need to be washed out of the mouths of Iowans after the two schools face each other Saturday in Ohio Stadium, starting at 3:40 p.m. in their league opener.

Hayden Fry's bunch will be trying to bounce back from last Saturday's 20-17 loss at the hands of Joe Paterno's Nittany Lions. After losing to Penn State, the Hawkeyes are now 1-1 for the season; they beat Iowa State 59-21 in their intrastate opener.

Only two offensive starters from last year return to the Iowa line-up, quarterback Chuck Long and receiver-turned-running back Ronnie Harmon. The former will try to attack by air to penetrate the Buckeye defense; the latter is a top all-purpose runner.

Should OSU's defenders manage to force turnovers as they did in last Saturday's 44-0 win over Washington State, they could really be dangerous by season's end. Three interceptions and two fumble recoveries by the Bucks snuffed the few scoring threats posed by the Cougars.

Sonny Gordon, rover; Terry White, safety and Pepper Johnson, linebacker, were the men who picked off the passes.

Johnson must have thought he was Keith Byars, holding the ball out with one hand on his interception return.

Byars, by the way, picked up 145 yards in 26 carries and scored twice. On his first TD, Byars went up and over from the one, on his second he caught a five yard pass in the corner of the end zone on a throw that looked like it was intended for another receiver.

Rich Spangler accounted for the first points of the afternoon when he was true from the right hashmark with a 43 yard field goal.

Staring fullback Roman Bates drove in for OSU's initial touchdown from three yards out.

Other point makers included tailback John Wooldridge, quarterback Jim Karsatos and tailback Kevin Delaney. Delaney, from Worthington, is the son of Ohio State Associate Athletic Director Dick Delaney.

Both of OSU's top quarterbacks looked respectable in the game against WSU. Karsatos completed 7 of 12 passes for 69 yards, while Mike Tomczak went 5 of 7 for 55 yards. Neither was intercepted.

Non-conference foes give Big Ten teams rough time

SPORTS LINE

By FELIX HOOVER

Just when the Big Ten looked like it was the gem of the football nation, it had a week like last one.

Only the Buckeyes and Badgers were able to post wins. Wisconsin could have been the ninth Big Ten school to lose last Saturday, but Missouri failed to connect on its final two-point conversion attempt.

Former Eastmoor runner Marck Harrison chalked up the Badgers' final touchdown as his team won 35-34.

In other Big Ten games Washington beat Michigan 20-11, Nebraska clobbered Minnesota 38-7, Kentucky hosed the Hoosiers 48-14, Penn State held off Iowa 20-17, Miami (Fla.) overcame Purdue 28-17, Stanford bombed Illinois 34-19, Notre Dame downed Michigan State and Syracuse beat the clock and Northwestern 13-12.

One of the main cogs in Georgetown's national basketball championship team of last season is going to have to mesh with the books more if he plans to return to the hardwood for the Hoyas.

Georgetown Coach John Thompson says the Graham will be sidelined not just for a semester, but at least a whole year.

Ohio State will have to do without Keith Wesson in the front line at least until the beginning of Winter Quarter. While Wesson is academically ineligible, Joe Conchek has regained his academic good standing.

City receives award from HUD

Mayor Dana G. Rinehart has received a national certificate of recognition on behalf of the City of Columbus from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The award was given to Operation Weatherbeater, the City's no cost/low cost weatherization program, in recognition of its successful utilization of community development partnerships.

Operation Weatherbeater has helped over 5,700 low and moderate income households alleviate some of the cost burden of high utility bills. The program offers workshops which provide: 1) education in no cost lifestyle energy conservation; 2) hands-on training in the proper installation of low cost weatherization materials; and 3) up to $80.00 worth (retail value) of weatherization materials free of charge. Volunteers are involved in leading workshops and in installing materials in elderly and disabled persons homes who are unable to do it themselves.

Those organizations receiving recognition for their contributions to the program include Scioto Valley Presbytery, Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., Columbus and Southern Electric Company, Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission, We Care Health Facility, and the Junior League of Columbus. The involvement of these and many other community organizations has made Operation Weatherbeater a successful program.

Registration begins Sept. 25 at local recreation centers

The Columbus Recreation and Parks Dep. will begin taking registration for fall activities beginning Tuesday, Sept. 25, at all 25 community recreation centers.

On Sept. 25, registration for programs will be taken only on a first-come, first-served basis and only on an in-person basis.

Beginning Wednesday, Sept. 26, phone-in registration will be accepted. Registration will remain open as long as individual activities have available space. All programs will begin the week of October 1st and will last for eight weeks.

A check of the individual recreation centers' schedules shows that over 120 different recreational activities will be offered around the city in activities ranging from gymnastics and volleyball for elementary age and teenage to painting and drama for adults and from ceramics for senior citizens to basic movement for preschoolers. Activities are available for the whole family from preschoolers through senior citizens. For further program information, call your local or closest recreation center or if you aren't aware of a recreation center, call 222-7342 for information.

Also beginning on Sept. 25, there will be registration for volleyball teams at each center. Registration will be for coed teams as well as for boys' teams and girls' teams. In November each center will send teams to a city-wide volleyball tournament in elementary, middle school and high school age groups. This tournament will be for coed teams. A separate invitational tournament will be held for teen power volleyball teams in both boys and girls' divisions. Volleyball play will begin the week of Oct. 1.

All Columbus Recreation Centers are open from 1 to 10:00 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Saturdays.

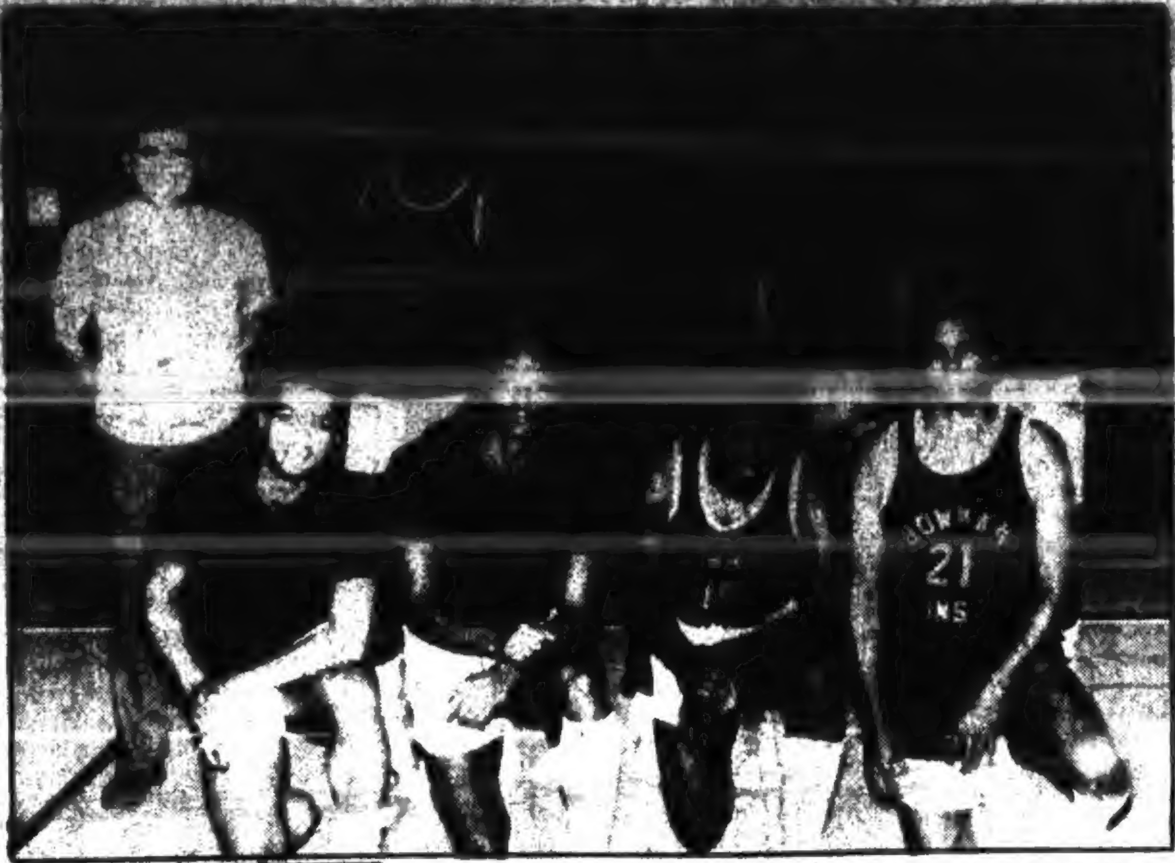
Basketball league in 2nd decade

When the Broad Street Presbyterian Church's Youth Basketball League begins the upcoming season on November 29th it will be celebrating its tenth anniversary.

The league services young men 13-15 and is regarded by the athletic committee that oversees league operations as a stepping stone to high school athletics.

The league, which was formed to help youths in the inner-city get out of the street and into organized play, carries the motto "Get High On Sports, Not Drugs!."



ROUNDBALL CHAMPS-The Tom Bowman Insurance Agency basketball team won the summer championship sponsored by the Columbus Recreation and Parks Department winning all seven of its games in the Monday Southview League. Bowman's squad beat Russo Realtors in the finals 83-75 to claim the city title. Pictured from left, kneeling, are Robert Cladwell, Jim Clemmons, Kelvin Ransey and Tom Bowman. Standing, Asst. Coach Dennis Wilcox, Fred Saunders, Herb Williams, Marquis Miller and John Davenport. Absent at the time of the photo were Granville Walters, Jerry Saunders, Randy Ayers and Coach Larry Jones.

Get the credit you deserve.

The Huntington Secured Personal Credit Line costs you nothing to have and there's no obligation to use it. But if you ever need extra money you know it's available just by writing a check. And the annual percentage rate is easy to take, too.

*The rates shown below are in effect through September 26, 1984. The annual percentage rate may vary, based on our prime commercial rate in effect on the 25th day of the month two months prior to the month in which any statement period begins.

Credit Line	APR*
$50,000-$100,000	14.50%
20,000- 49,999	15.00%
10,000- 19,999	15.50%

There is a $35 annual fee, but we'll waive this fee until you use your Huntington Personal Credit Line for the first time. And when you use your Huntington Personal Credit Line, your monthly payments are only $100 or 2% of the outstanding balance, whichever is greater. What's more, each payment you make automatically rebuilds the amount you have available in your credit line to use again.

For more information or to apply for your Personal Credit Line, stop in the office nearest you. Or send us the coupon below. You can even apply over the telephone. It's that easy.
